Bernstein Again Heads TB Hospital Board Of Managers

At the annual meeting of the Board of Governors of the Ulster County TB Hospital, held Friday evening at the hospital, at which all the board was present, the following officers were elected: Sam Bernstein, president; the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seeley, first vice president; Dr. Mary Gage Day, second vice president; Dr. Frederick W. Holcomb, superintendent.

President Bernstein's address was as follows:

In rendering a report of my official position for the last twelve months, I have kept in very close touch with all the details of the workings of the institution, making an average of three visits a week, and a complete inspection of each department at least once a week. I have consulted with the heads of the departments on every matter of any importance, and have received from them their fullest cooperation. Considering the size of the hospital, the number of patients and employees, I found but very little friction. We have had to make some changes and adjustments, but on the whole there was nothing of serious importance to upset the working discipline or morale of the institution. It has been a source of great satisfaction that we have been able to keep the expenses down, coming far below the estimates of several members of the Board of Supervisors. Taking into consideration that this is our first year of operation, I consider it a matter for congratulation that things have run so smoothly, and I credit it entirely to the good management and diplomacy of our business manager and superintendent of nurses, who have been untiring in their efforts to maintain a high standard of efficiency and who have handled every trying situation with understanding. It has been our good fortune in having as the practical head of this institution a man whose knowledge of the disease we are combating, stands preeminent among the best authorities. It is only Dr. Holcomb's great love of the work and his pride in building up a permanent monument that will redound to the credit and glory of the people of Ulster county, that he has accepted this position at a great personal sacrifice to his practice and to himself. How well he has succeeded, in one short year, his report which follows will show. His advice on all matters pertaining to hospital work has been most valuable and in accepting this assignment, the county owes him a great debt of gratitude, that they will never be able to repay. In closing let me thank my fellow members of the Board for their splendid cooperation. I have thoroughly enjoyed the work, largely because of its humanitarian features, together with the great pride that I feel in this magnificent institution.

ROOSEVELT DEVOTES DAY TO FARM RELIEF TOPICS

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 26 (AP).—President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt turned his attention today to the problems that have beset the farmer for more than a century and arranged to interrupt his vacation for conferences with a committee from the National Grange and members of the House Agriculture Committee. At the head of farm leaders, comprising the executive committee of the National Grange was Fred J. Freestone, master of the New York State National Grange, an old acquaintance of Mr. Roosevelt's. The Grangers brought here the plan of the National Grange for rehabilitation of agriculture. Mr. Roosevelt had not been informed in advance what they planned to propose. In his recent campaign speech at Topeka, Kansas, Mr. Roosevelt suggested that the leaders of the farm organization agree on a plan for aiding the farmers.

BARE LUTHERAN BIBLE ARRIVES IN AMERICA

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP).—With arrival in Washington this week of the Luther Bible belonging to Dr. Otto H. F. Vollbehr, the Capital now boasts the two books considered by bibliophiles as rarest. First rank is accorded the Gutenberg Bible, belonging to the Library of Congress, for which the Benedictine Monastery of St. Paul in Carinthia, Austria, received from Dr. Vollbehr the highest price ever paid for a book—$275,000. Congress bought it, along with 2,999 other Vollbehr incunabula for a lump sum of $1,500,000. Before storing the Luther Bible in a safety vault here, Dr. Vollbehr took its three volumes from their individual, triple-padded wooden cases, turned their heavy parchment pages, and pointed out many rarities within a rarity which makes this Bible rank so very high.

Said He Took Bag Of Flour as Joke

Constantine Gusiak of Abel Street arrested on charge of stealing flour from truck of Tony Qualere—Other Cases in Police Court. "It was just a joke," explained Constantine Gusiak of Abel street when arraigned before Judge Culliton in police court this morning on a charge of petit larceny lodged against him by Tony Qualere, who alleged that Constantine had taken a bag of flour from the Qualere truck while it was parked on Abel street on Friday afternoon.

Qualere said he happened to look out of the window and saw Gusiak walking away with the bag of flour under his arm. Qualere said he walked to the Rondout Creek Bridge where he found Officer Fitzgerald on duty and told him of the affair. Officer Fitzgerald telephoned police headquarters and the police car was sent in charge of Officers Simon Wood and Peter Camp.

Gusiak was placed under arrest. He had hidden the bag of flour by covering it over with leaves. He showed the officers where it was hidden and at that time said he had taken it only as a joke on Qualere.

Judge Culliton decided to hold the disposition of the case open until later until he could hear Officer Fitzgerald's story of the episode.

Gusiak entered a plea of not guilty to the charge.

Three Negroes Arrested

Joseph Smith, a negro, who had just been released from jail on Friday morning was arrested later in the day on a charge of panhandling on the Strand. He was given a suspended sentence provided he left town.

Eljah Miller, a negro arrested for public intoxication at the city hall, was also given a suspended sentence provided he left town.

Odell Harrison, a negro, arrested for panhandling, was given a suspended sentence.

In order to see that all three negroes did leave town Judge Culliton directed the police to take them in the police car to the Rondout Creek Bridge and see that they started south.

Parking In Street

Herbert Whitaker of Abel street parked his truck more than six inches from the curb on central Broadway on Friday while he entered a house to get some curtains.

Judge Culliton said he would suspend sentence this time, but warned Whitaker that hereafter if he found he was going to be delayed he should not leave his truck stand where it would interfere with traffic.

Reynolds' Kin Victim Of Pistol

Winston-Salem, N. C., Nov. 26 (AP).—For the second time within six months a pistol bullet has ranged into the head of a relative of the late R. J. Reynolds, who built a fortune in tobacco here, and mystery cloaks both shootings.

Robert C. Critz, 35-year-old aviation enthusiast and first cousin of Smith Reynolds, who was R. J. Reynolds' son, lay in a hospital here today, dangerously wounded by a bullet near his brain.

Critz was found wounded last night in the bathroom of his home here.

The fatal shooting of young Smith Reynolds, at Reynolds, the family estate here, last July 6, led to the indictment for murder of Smith's brother-in-law, Libby Holman Reynolds, and his close friend, Albert Walker. The charges were dropped recently because of lack of evidence. Critz was a witness at the inquest into his cousin's death.

Relatives said they were unable to say whether the shooting of Critz was "accidental or intentional." A pistol owned by Critz's father inflicted the wound, they added.

Former Princeton President Dead

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 26 (AP).—Dr. Francis L. Patton, former president of Princeton University, died last night at King Edward VII Hospital after a short illness. He would have been 90 years old in January.

He was president of Princeton from 1888 to 1902. Woodrow Wilson succeeded him. In that year he became president of the Princeton Theological Seminary, serving for eleven years.

In 1913 he retired and came to Bermuda where he was born in 1842.

Early in his career he filled pastorates at New York, Brooklyn and Nyack, N. Y. In 1871 he became professor of theology in the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Chicago, now McCormick Seminary. He filled that position for ten years serving also as pastor of the Jefferson Park Presbyterian Church.

Committed To Jail. Frederick Harold, 43, of the town of Lloyd, was committed to the Ulster county jail Friday by Justice Walter Hasbrouck. Highland, to serve 30 days on a disorderly conduct charge.

Ashokan Reservoir "Suicide" Proved A Practical Joke

A desire to create a sensation and to cause excitement apparently was the reason for the leaving of notes and clothing on the bank of the Ashokan reservoir near Glenford some time ago. As was concluded by the officials after an investigation, the clothing and notes were left there by a man who had been camping in the vicinity and who on departure decided to have his "practical joke." The result was that a great deal of time was devoted to the case by men from the sheriff's office, State Troopers and Coroner Conner before it was determined that either some practical joker had left the notes and clothing or that some mentally deranged person was responsible.

On November 13 Deputy Sheriff Wesley A. O'Brien of Glenford discovered clothing and nearby a note stating that the writer had been compelled to hide for a time due to some information which he had unwillingly given, and that he had been persecuted by police officers and had decided to end it all by suicide. Nearby were found embers of a fire and evidence of a meal having been cooked. It was at first thought someone had committed suicide by drowning in the reservoir. The clothing was examined and found that shoes were missing. There was no evidence of anyone having gone down to the shallow water off shore and it was decided that the whole matter was a hoax.

Continuing the investigation Deputy Sheriff Albright communicated with the New York police giving the name and address which was found in the note.

The police department investigated in New York city and communicated with the address which was found in the note. Among the papers found at the scene was the address of a firm in New York city located at 11 Broadway.

In one note was the name "Norman Schur, with Proskeuer, Rose and Paskus, 11 Broadway." The New York police went to that address and there interviewed Norman W. Shore. Mr. Shore stated that his brother-in-law, Daril Paris, who is also known as George, had been camping in the woods somewhere near Woodstock and that the notes were in his handwriting. He also stated that Paris had sailed for Havana on September 14 and on November 8 had written stating that he had left his old clothing in the woods.

This substantiates the theory which the local officials long since concluded was true, that someone had changed clothing and left the old clothing and note on the bank to create a sensation.

C. J. Paris was born at Boston on June 17, 1908.

Evidently after camping for some time in this locality he left for New York city and prior to going back to the city changed his old clothing for new ones. The evidence of cooking having been done near the spot where the clothing was found bears out the statement that Paris had been camping in that locality. The name appearing on the note was similar to that of Paris's brother-in-law and through it the "mystery" was solved.

AGREEMENT BETWEEN FRANCE AND SOVIET RUSSIA

Paris, Nov. 26 (AP).—The text of a pact of conciliation and non-aggression between France and Soviet Russia was approved today by the cabinet. Premier Herriot said it will be signed on Tuesday.

The agreement provides that neither country, alone or in connection with a third power, will resort to arms against the other, and that each will respect the territories under the sovereignty of the other.

It also stipulates that if either party is the object of aggression of a third power the other will not aid the aggressor directly or indirectly.

If one party should commit an act of aggression against a third power, the other party to the agreement can immediately withdraw from the pact.

Both nations agree that neither shall enter any international arrangement hampering the commerce of the other nor interfering with the granting of credits to the other.

Russia agrees also to refrain from propaganda in France and its colonies.

Russia therefore has stopped all propaganda in Tunis, Morocco and Indo-China. According to an interpretation furnished by official sources, Russia also will abstain from protecting, aiding or admitting to Russian soil members or organizations pretending to represent France or French colonies such as the "Young Tunisians" and the "Young Annamites."

White Russians who have taken refuge in France will be permitted to remain here, however, providing they are not armed.

Boys Find Body Of A Dead Man Lying In Brook

Harold Tubby and Richard Wells—Gathering Sticks in Woods About 300 Feet from Rondout Creek Bridge Make Grotesque Discovery—Body was Frozen Stiff.

This morning Harold Tubby of 26 Ravine street and Richard Wells of 2 Post street, two young boys, crossed the Rondout Creek Bridge to the Esopus side to gather sticks in the woods bordering the road that leads from the Esopus end of the bridge to the village of Connelly. About 300 feet from the bridge and down a slope young Tubby began slashing at a large pine limb that lay across the brook than ran through the woods, emptying into the Rondout creek.

As the lad started slashing the limb with his axe he was horrified to see lying under the limb and almost covered by leaves and underbrush the body of a dead man. He called to young Wells and the two boys ran out of the woods to the nearest telephone to tell of their startling find.

The sheriff's office was notified of the finding of the body and Messrs. Moynaux and Albright motored over the bridge to where the body was found, after notifying Coroner W. Norman Conner, who followed shortly after.

With the assistance of some of the men who had gathered at the scene the body was removed from the brook and placed in the Conner ambulance and removed to his office on Fair street, where Coroner Conner made an extended examination of the body.

It was evident from a casual investigation made before the body was removed that it had lain in the waters of the brook for several days as the body was frozen stiff.

The spot where the body was found is a lonely one. The Connelly road runs along an embankment that slopes down to the waters of the Rondout creek. From swampy ground on the other side of the road the brook that flows down into the creek has its origin.

It looked as though the man had climbed over the fence that runs alongside the road and started to go down the embankment and fallen into the brook and the waters had swept him into a bend in the bed of the brook where the body had lodged.

When found the body lay face down, and was almost hidden from sight with the limb of a tree and quantities of leaves and underbrush that the brook had gathered up in its course on its way to the creek below.

There was no papers found in the pockets by which the dead man could be identified. He weighs about 155 to 160 pounds and is 5 feet 6 inches tall. He had on a good suit of underwear and a pair of blue socks. His shoes were in good condition and he wore a blue shirt and a gray overcoat in fairly good condition and a sweater. He also wore a blue necktie and had an umbrella and a brown slouch hat. In his pockets were found a couple of papers of matches and a pocketknife.

Coroner Conner said that there were no indications that the man had met foul play.

Expect To Vote On Repeal Question As Congress Opens

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP).—Speaker John N. Garner today announced he would recognize a motion to suspend the rules for a vote on the resolution to repeal the 18th Amendment on the first day of the coming session of Congress.

The Vice President-elect said "Both parties have demanded an opportunity to vote on it and I'm going to let them vote on it on December 5."

Only a moment before, on the Senate side of the Capitol, similar sentiments had been expressed by Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader.

Submission of a repeal amendment to the states would require two-thirds of those voting in the House and Senate.

McNary told newspapermen that in view of the actions of the political conventions, he would urge an early congressional decision.

Senate leaders had not determined today what form the proposed resolution should take.

They were informed that Senator Glass (D., Va.), wanted his resolution which was before the Senate last session, to be referred to the judiciary committee for revision.

This might result in some other measure forming the basis for debate and action when the Senate takes up the question.

The Glass resolution proposed a substitute for the 18th amendment, one that would give a constitutional guarantee against the saloon.

Franklin Arraigned. George Brannigan, 27, of 70 Cedar street, was arraigned before Justice Walter Webber of Lake Katrine Friday afternoon, charged with manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Olympia Mormillo, who died as the result of an automobile accident on the Flatbush road Thursday. Brannigan furnished bail in the amount of $1,500 for appearance before the grand jury.

Britain Preparing New Note On Debts

London, Nov. 26 (AP).—The British government proceeded today in the belief that arrangements could yet be made to pass the December war debt payment to the United States, despite advice from Washington to the contrary.

To that end a new note to Washington was in the making. It will follow up a note sent earlier in the month requesting suspension of the $95,550,000 installment—a note to which Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson replied yesterday.

What the new note may contain was a matter of conjecture, but before its framers was an expression of good will by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. "The discussions with the United States are arousing no bad feeling between us," was the Prime Minister's statement.

As summed up for the British taxpayer, the British viewpoint was expressed thus by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the Exchequer: "We never contemplated a state of things in which we might be asked to make payments equivalent to another shilling on the pound on our income tax, while at the same time we received nothing from our debtors."

"That would be a position which alike from the point of view of justice and from the point of view of the possibility of maintaining the prosperity of our industries would be absolutely insupportable."

The British income tax amounts to 25 per cent now. If it went up, it would amount to 30 per cent, according to the chancellor.

The Prime Minister's statement came last night in a speech at Retford, the seat of the House of Commons constituency of his own.

"America has a political situation—we have an economic one," Mr. MacDonald said.

"I do not believe for a moment that, if there is a real effort made together, if both can put themselves in the other's shoes, that no solution can be found to enable December 15 to be passed and the future to be examined and pondered over and new agreements made between us of good will who understand what the present unfortunate financial situation means to the world and the human beings who live in it."

"The discussions with the United States are arousing no bad feelings between us. (Here there was long and loud cheering.)"

"We know the position of the United States, we know its political position. They are just like ourselves."

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR LITTLE HOWARD BAXTER.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 26 (AP).—Search for Howard Baxter, 3, who disappeared from his home in the extreme southern side of the city yesterday morning, was continued today by police, state troopers, Boy Scouts and volunteers. All night there were searches on the heavily wooded hill near his home.

"I do not believe for a moment that, if there is a real effort made together, if both can put themselves in the other's shoes, that no solution can be found to enable December 15 to be passed and the future to be examined and pondered over and new agreements made between us of good will who understand what the present unfortunate financial situation means to the world and the human beings who live in it."

He received the injury in the second quarter of the game, when, as fullback, he was the only Antwerp player left between the Canton man carrying the ball and the Antwerp goal line. The Canton man came on a fast clip, with a teammate for interference racing alongside. Brown, in tackling, struck his head violently against the bodies of both. He was carried from the field, paralyzed from the arms to the feet. Doctors said then that his death was only a matter of time.

Foreign Nations Advised To Pay, If They Want Review

America's Notes To Three Debtors State President Intends To Recommend Creation of An Agency To Review War Debts—Britain and France Preparing New Debt Notes, Despite Advice to the Contrary.

France May Consider Another Note to U.S.

Paris, Nov. 26 (AP).—Unofficial intimations that France might consider another note to the United States on the war debt appeared today as Premier Herriot called high government officials into conference.

The premier asked Louis Germain-Martin, finance minister, and foreign office experts to meet him.

The newspaper Excelsior said that after the conference the premier would be able to draft a new note and submit it to the cabinet on Monday.

This communication, the paper added, probably would be delivered in Washington after the British government forwards its note on the same subject.

Texts of the two documents, it was said, would be in nowise be concerned, though it would be possible in advance to foresee the same legal and factual arguments.

Ere Nouvelle, the Leftist organ, said France stated the problem in one way, and America in the other.

"We are far from indifferent to this," the paper added, "but we must not alone involved. Each party must shoulder its responsibility. We assumed ours at Lausanne. It tomorrow Lausanne is considered null and void, we acquiesce, but also we consider our course always in the same spirit of good will always with constant effort defending our rights and the just interests of our country, and taking the widest account of confidence and accord between us and our British friends."

The Journal captioned the text of the American note advising France to pay its $20,000,000 debt interest installment next month, as follows: "America's intransigent refusal to prolong the war debt moratorium."

Injuries Fatal To Football Player

Watertown, N. Y., Nov. 26 (AP).—The first scholastic football fatality in northern New York in years occurred today with the death of Donald Brown, 21, of Antwerp, in Morcy Hospital. His neck was broken when he attempted to tackle a ball carrier of Canton High School in that school's annual contest with Antwerp High School on November 4 last.

He was graduated from Antwerp High and spent one year in Syracuse University before returning to Antwerp High to attend the one year teachers' training class there. Brown was a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown of that village.

Capitol Receives Its Annual Bath

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP).—Much whiter after its annual bath, the Capitol inside and out is ready for the return of the lawmakers December 5.

The old building also has been made a little bit more fireproof. Steel doors have replaced wood in the Senate basement and attic as a step to prevent fire such as occurred in the basement about 18 months ago. These improvements were made with a $100,000 fire prevention appropriation.

The District of Columbia fire department gave the building its bath a few weeks ago. After the bath it was inspected and some repairs were made. It was rubbed down, all corners joints made.

The House did not get new carpets this year for the first time in a long while. Rubber tiling, put down before the last session, stood up well and is almost as good as new. The Capitol architect's office says. That's a saving of $2,500. The Senate's carpets won't be replaced either.

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP).—Treasury receipts for November 23 were $62,676,080.64; expenditures, $69,323,399.81; balance, $612,362,629.62. Customs duties for 23 days of November were $19,716,125.95.

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP).—Despite strenuous opposition of congressional leaders to creation of an agency to review war debts, America's notes to three European powers, advising them to pay December 15 debt installments, stated that President Hoover intended to recommend establishment of such a commission.

The notes handed by Secretary Stimson to the ambassadors of Great Britain, France and Belgium on November 23—the evening after the President's conference with those congressional leaders—all carried that statement.

The notes stated clearly, however, that Mr. Hoover could have no sufficient reason in the requests presented for granting a new moratorium; that Congress alone could make such an extension and that neither the national legislature nor the American people were in a mood to do so.

With the publication of the notes here last night came also new expressions from Capitol Hill against the Hoover proposal. Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, repeated that the entire debt question should be considered only in connection with a program to adjust all postwar economic difficulties and characterized the President's proposal to allow foreign debtors to pay in their own currency as a "diluted form of a moratorium."

Brilliant Stars In Varied Colors To Light Eastern Sky In December

By ROBERT M. BAKER
(Professor Astronomy, University of Illinois).

Urbana, Ill., (AP)—The eastern sky during the evenings of December will be ablaze with the brightest constellations in the heavens.

At 9 o'clock the familiar quadrilateral of Orion is well above the horizon with its two brilliant stars, the red Betelgeuse at the left and the blue Rigel at the right.

Three stars in line in the middle of the quadrilateral direct the eye downward to the Dog Star, Sirius, the brightest of all the stars. Near the horizon it flashes momentarily all the colors of the rainbow, if the air is disturbed.

Above Orion the V-shaped Hyades can be seen in the constellation Taurus, containing the red star Aldebaran; and still higher the Pleiades, or Seven Sisters, bear some resemblance to a short handled dipper.

Procyon, the lesser Dog Star, appears to the left of Sirius and a little higher. Above it is the rectangle of Gemini, with its bright stars Castor and Pollux, the heavenly twins.

Auriga, looking somewhat like an inverted muffin, appears above Gemini. Its brilliant star Sapella is yellow, like the sun.

It will repay anyone to observe this celestial display some good evening, especially when the moon is out of sight. Then the colors of the stars are more clearly seen. And then, if there is not too much competition from artificial lights, one notices the luminous stream of the Milky Way threading its way up the sky, past the feet of Gemini, and the horns of Taurus. It is the thinnest part of the Milky Way, in the direction toward the edge of the great galactic system which is nearest us.

Betelgeuse, the red star in Orion (it is pronounced as though it were spelled Betelgerz) is in fact one of the reddest of the bright stars. It came into public notice some 12 years ago when the late Professor Michelson succeeded in measuring its diameter, for it turned out to be enormous—more than 200 million miles. Only two stars are known to be larger. The largest of all is the red star Antares, which is seen in the south during the summer evenings.

Is it necessary to believe in miracles to be a Christian? Is there any cure for a person who worries about everything? What attitude should a Christian take toward the liquor question? Will beer bring prosperity? Ought we not first Christianize America before sending missionaries to foreign lands? In the past, religious revivals followed depressions, why is there not such a revival today? Why were the books of the Bible accepted as the Word of God? Musical program: 10:45 a. m.: Prelude—Larghetto.....S. S. Wesley. Organ offertory—Consolation.....Mendelssohn. Postlude.....Bach.

+ International + Walther League

The regular meeting of the district executive board was held Saturday evening, November 19, at 8 o'clock at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Albany. At this meeting plans for the annual officers' conference were discussed to quite some length. The conference this year, which will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Albany, on January 21, will differ somewhat from conferences held previously. Instead of the various groups of officers meeting separately and then in one body, the conference this time will have all the officers and members of the league grouped in one room and questions and suggestions will be discussed by the leaders and from the floor of the conference.

Plans are also under way for the 1933 summer outing. The place for the outing has not as yet been designated. However, the committee in charge is looking for a spot centrally located in order that the leaguers from Kingston, Hudson and Stuyvesant will not have to travel such a great distance as they have been compelled to do heretofore.

Rehearsals for Christmas carolling will soon begin. All those interested in this work should report for rehearsals as soon as the date is announced. The carolers will visit the various institutions in the city during the Christmas season.

A special meeting of the executive board of the Immanuel Young People's Society will be held Wednesday evening, November 30, at 7:30 sharp. This meeting is called for the express purpose of picking the characters for the play "Little Mother Baker," which will be presented some time during the month of January.

The regular monthly meeting of the Junior Society will be held on Monday evening, November 28, at 7:30 o'clock. All Juniors are urged to attend the meeting as well as the Junior Counselors.

The next meeting of the Young People's Society will feature a "Question Box" as the educational part of the meeting. Questions are to be sent to Pastor Witte at least two weeks before the meeting.

No Admission Asked For Choral Concert

When the "Orpheus Choral Club" comes to Clinton Avenue M. E. Church on Wednesday evening, November 30, it will be the first time in a number of years that a mixed chorus has given a concert in Kingston. This club is composed of about 70 singers, some of them vocal students, and all of them singers of various church choirs. People who have heard the chorus say that they are singers who sing with an understanding of their music and make the audience enjoy the songs too.

The club is fortunate in being able to present David E. Abeel of Saugerties as the trumpet soloist of the evening. Mr. Abeel is considered one of the best trumpeters in this section of the state. He was an advanced student at the Williams' Band School this past summer, and will favor the audience with a group of numbers at this concert. Clark N. Maynard, head of the music department in the Saugerties public schools, will act as accompanist for Mr. Abeel.

It is unusual that such a concert can be put on free to the public, but it is being done mainly that no one need miss hearing the program. There will be an offering taken during the evening. Roland E. Heer, of Saugerties, directs the Choral Club and will have charge of the entire program for the evening.

WHEN SHOKAN AND CHARLES DE WITT COUNCILS MERGED.

West Shokan, Nov. 25.—On the evening of Tuesday, November 26, 1912, the consolidation took place of Shokan Council, No. 132, Jr. O. U. A. M., with Charles DeWitt Council, No. 91, of Kingston. A large delegation of the local lodge members journeyed to Kingston on the evening train, where the ceremony was held at the then meeting place of Charles DeWitt Council on Thomas street and Broadway. After a stay over in the Old Colonial City the delegation returned on the morning train. The local council had been in existence for a period of nine years, having had its inception in 1903. Among its members were numbered some of the best people in this locality. In the year 1908, Shokan Council won the distinction of being the banner council of the state. In the fall of that year a great open house and banquet was held in Pythian Hall, and attended by state council officers. The prize awarded was a beautiful silk American flag and staff, which is now one of the coveted possessions of Charles DeWitt Council. A great drive for members was started in the preceding fall of 1907, which extended through to the following spring. Many were added to its membership, which included the cream of the then growing-up generation of boys 16 and older. Most of these yet living have held tenaciously to its membership.

HEALTH DANGER SIGNALS

The fact that illness and general death rates have never been lower in this country than during the current year does not mean that economic depression has a favorable effect upon health or that health work can be safely curtailed. Dr. Dublin, former president of the American Health Association, points out that there is "always a lag between the circumstances that favor the development of illness and the appearance of the resulting illness." Danger signals are already apparent, indicating that undernourishment, worry and neglect of physical examination and medical care are beginning to injure public health.

Dr. Dublin does not emphasize this warning in order to alarm the public or to deny the many recent reports of good health and low death rates. He is urging that in the widespread economizing which cannot be avoided, public health work be cut down just as little as possible. Child welfare work, in particular, needs to be maintained. Adults whose health has been undermined by privation can often be restored to normal by subsequent treatment. Children suffering privation are in danger of being permanently stunted in body and mind. No amount of food later can undo the damage wrought during the growing years, say authorities on child health. Settling the problem of the international debts is important, but so, too, is saving the children from the bad effects of the depression.

REALISM IN WAR DEBTS.

The most serious obstacle now to a reasonable solution of the war debt problem by the United States government is the position taken by Congress in its last session, putting it on record as absolutely opposed to any revision or modification of the existing war settlement. The debtors had their year's moratorium; after that they were to be held to the literal terms of their agreement. Most of the congressmen, being intelligent men, must have known that they were legislating nonsense. There had already been liberal concessions made to the debtors, and it was a safe guess that there would have to be more.

It was plain that Germany was not going to pay the Allies any more, and therefore there was at least a strong presumption that the Allies would soon hedge on payments to the United States. It was well known that payment in cash was difficult, and that rising tariffs made it still more difficult for international debtors to pay in goods.

WOMEN DRIVERS.

The question whether women are better drivers than men, or as good, will never be answered to the satisfaction of both sides. Here, however, is an interesting contribution to the debate. Replying to a woman's statement that women have fewer driving accidents than men, and that prejudice against women drivers is merely the result of jealousy and egotism on the part of males, a correspondent writes to the Editor:

She is mistaken. The experiments conducted by Dr. Morris Viteles of the University of Pennsylvania and Miss Helen M. Gardner reveal that women taxicab drivers are responsible for three times as many accidents as men. The study operated the same type of vehicle, in the same weather conditions and in the same amount of traffic. The actual statistics are: Women, 9,767 accidents per 1,000 miles; men, 9,257 accidents. Women, 5,063 accidents per $1,000 revenue; men, 1,445 accidents.

Now it is in order to hear from the women again. And then from mechanics, engineers, psychologists and philosophers of both sexes.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

NATURE IS OVERKIND

A stout chap was being teased by a friend because of his overweight. From an athletic youth he had acquired what is known as "the middle age spread."

"Well," he answered, "I was visiting a friend in the hospital last week, saw hundreds of men and women down there, and I did not see a fat one in the whole crowd."

Now this comes very close to being absolutely correct, because for a considerable period those who are fat or overweight are usually quite healthy. This simply means that Nature is good to us; that when we eat a certain amount of food, the amount necessary to keep our bodies fit and well, we will keep our proper weight. If, however, we eat more than we need three things may happen, (a) we put on extra weight, (b) the excess food is thrown out every day as waste, (c) part of the excess food remains as waste in our systems and we may actually lose weight although eating more food than we need.

The first thought then of the overweight individual, the one who is not born overweight but who has acquired overweight through lack of exercise, is to remember that Nature has been very kind to him; Nature actually does the necessary work in his body with less food than in others, and stores the rest up as fat for future use. This extra tissue, this excess fat can thus be used up for fuel or food at some future time should no food be available.

Therefore the overweight individual instead of being ashamed of his ability to acquire fat easily, should remember that he really has a larger margin of safety as far as food is concerned than has the individual who does not acquire weight so readily.

Chapter 36
A CLEVER GIRL

"AND so more homeing," Santa barracked her lips with the sheet.

"But darling, you've promised that," said Clive.

"You've been awfully bossy," she replied him.

"O, beg pardon—you're not referring to your own shortcoming."

"Well, haven't you?" Her eyes twinkled.

"Bossed you? I certainly haven't. The shoe's been on the other foot. If I can't salute your lips, your nose will do."

She forestalled him by pulling the sheet higher.

"You can have my lips when you've promised."

"Promised what?"

"Not to boss me."

"I never have—but I promise." The sheet was lowered.

"Young devil!" He caught her to him.

He left the apartment grinning. Her ruse had been the revenge of a little capricious girl.

The chill November air was bracing. He was in a mood to count his blessings. A wife who worshipped him. An employer who at one throw had more than doubled his salary. Scarcely more than six months ago he'd been that most desolate of creatures, a bachelor.

Marriage to him had been a vision on the road to Damascus, revealing life in its fulness. He'd lacked faith in his ability till Santa had inspired him. Merely to be her husband had boosted his stock. He was sitting on top of the world. Peaks of triumph!

In the subway, hurrying downtown, he asked himself what had been the reason for his success. It boiled down to this: that Santa had forced him to reach up to a standard which had been a prophecy.

She'd presumed his success. Anyhow, misunderstandings were things of the past. His straight talking even if it wasn't quite merited, had cleared the atmosphere.

Seated in his office, occupied with facts, a doubt cast a shadow. Cleared the atmosphere? Had it? Not till lunch did he permit himself the leisure to examine. General Foch had achieved victory by a logic wholly feminine: "A battle won is a battle which we will not acknowledge to be lost." Santa had made the same discovery. In the moment of defeat, she had snatched back all her trenches by making him promise never again to be what he never had been—bossy.

With aroused suspicion that amounted almost to alarm, he ran over the progress of their quarrel. Santa had retreated, conceding everything till she had brought him to a halt. She'd employed the same tactics at Stratford. She'd been willing to agree with him till his arguments had grown stale through repetition; then she went her own way, dragging him at her chariot.

It became certain that she contemplated no reforms. She still intended that he should roost in the home of her choosing, sit on her chair, watched by all the gods who had witnessed her first marriage. A woman who never acknowledged defeat, never acknowledged that she had erred. Were husbands always in the wrong, he wondered.

And yet she seemed to be unaware of her obstinacy. Her subtlety was instinctive. Last night he'd missed his great chance. He should have framed a program before accepting her submission. If he were to reopen the debate it would be difficult to keep conversation on a friendly basis. On the other hand, if he didn't, he might as well not have spoken; affairs would drift placidly into their old channels.

With the half-formed idea of impressing her with his importance, he stuffed a stack of papers into his satchel.

"What on earth have you there?" she challenged.

"Work, darling."

"What a shame!"

"No, Santa. A salary of my size requires earning. Give me a pencil and paper. Divide the days of the year into twelve thousand. I'm earning just short of thirty-three dollars

SIR WALTER RALEIGH WAS UNDER SENTENCE OF DEATH FOR 13 YEARS...

HELEN WATERHOUSE WON THE RHODE ISLAND WOMEN'S GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP AT THE AGE OF 14...

THE ROLLING ROCK—of Fall River Mass., FOR YEARS ROCKED TO AND FRO ON ITS BASE YET NEVER FELL!

Sir Walter Raleigh, noted English seafarer and adventurer, lost his favor with the crown when James I followed Queen Elizabeth to the throne, and was imprisoned in 1603 under sentence of death. For 13 years he remained in prison under the sentence, but was accorded many liberties and was allowed to receive many visitors, among them King James' own son, the Prince of Wales.

Sir Walter was freed by the king later to begin another exploration in the New World. The Spanish defeated his plans, however, and of Raleigh returned to England where he was later executed.

A strange natural wonder, the Rolling Rock, of Fall River, Mass., was once used by Indians to punish enemies by rolling the delicately balanced rock on their victims' arms.

The Indians discovered that it would roll back and forth on its base if a little pressure were brought to bear against its side. Their method of torture was to place a captive's arm under an edge of the rock, then roll it over. For some unexplained reason however, the rock has become solid upon its base and efforts to roll it are now futile.

No one of the present generation has seen it move, although many of the older residents of Fall River remember their parents telling of seeing the big boulder rock easily on its granite base.

FASHIONS BY ELEANOR GUNN

Let Us Be Gay for the Holiday Gales, Says
Fashion

Miss Manhattan Opens the Winter Season

New York—It is natural for the shops to emphasize playgirl fashions this season. There are enough gals-about who are forever going places and doing things to cater to, even these days, so evening and later-afternoon fashions are as glittery and gay as ever. Let us be gay, says our dressmaker and say our shopkeepers, so let us fall in line and be gay, colorful, glamorous!

One of the surest receipts for brilliance is to combine beads, spangles and so on, with fur. With a dash of bright velvet or crepe thrown in for good measure, one should feel sufficiently stimulated to carry through the season.

Hyacinths have bloomed in the shop windows—or so one might think, since their color is the color, whether one is sixteen or sixty. It is a flattering shade. It is lovely with black, and it is new looking—all of which accounts for its success.

Beads are back—or there is the gleam of metal cloth, if you prefer your glamour in that form. Fur contributes a luxurious note, so what with one thing and another, we certainly do not need to look depressed, even though we may be.

The evening dress made in shirt-waist-and-skirt effect, a la Gibson girl, is one of the most popular types. Or, if you go in for the picturesque, there's fringe. There are also ruffles, great box-pleated ones, often of velvet ribbon, and there are flowers and ever so many things for the gala gown, which may be as short as the instep if you like it that way.

With pastel tones being offered under the coat for daytime occasions, it is natural that bright tones should be chosen for evening. The geranium shades are particularly lovely.

If you are fortunate enough to be getting more than one party dress, get a long-sleeved one for dinner parties.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Discussion relative to the fashions of the midseason collections deals with the tendency to narrower skirt lines. Never really tight, the skirts give a straight effect, with fulness concentrated at the center front, leaving the back flat or, in Patou interpretation, with the front plain and folds down either side of the back, also occasionally with pleats.

At the extreme left is a dress fashioned of black sheer velvet, the body molded and the upper bodice section done in silver beads. The width at the arms is interesting.

The second costume, a sumptuous model, is fashioned of a lovely red crushed velvet, the gown molded and the neckline trailing. The cape which is detachable is banded in kolinsky.

The third gown is an effective one, done in black woolen with a dull finish. The ermine capelet is engaging, with the fur repeated as a border for the low décolletage of the gown. Rhinestone buckles are glittering ornaments.

Fuchsia velvet is the medium chosen for the fourth gown, a picturesque type, with cartridge pleats creating an interesting off-the-shoulder décolletage, the cartridge pleats repeated at the neckline, dipping at the back.

The fifth gown is in an attractive hyacinth shade in rough crepe, and is interesting for its draped movement at the side of the bodice, with the released edge giving a ruffled detail. The seamed shaping at the hips is important.

An unusual arrangement of beads as well as unusual color combinations appears in the dress at the extreme right, fashioned of white rough crepe, the beads in mauve-brown, yellow and white. The high neckline and width at the arms are noteworthy details.

There is no lengthening of skirts detected but occasionally slight shortening with the inclusion of more in-step-length dinner gowns than usual.

Waistlines are less molded, with an increasing number of models showing approval of the line posed at hip tops, meaning just above the hip bone. Frequently the waistline is higher at the front and lower at the back, while an occasional kinkie treatment or fabric incrustation directs the eye even lower.

Sleeves still show fulness above the elbow at times or are bloused below it. They are often in straighter silhouette but carry fabric work or embroideries.

At the Ardane opening, mannequins powdered their hair silver or gold, complementing tuck-in decollete blouses of gold or silver.

Collections concerned with formal fashions reveal that the jacket costume for evening is undoubtedly one of the most important types.

Color combinations may be either worked together in the costume itself or supplied by parts of the costume, such as coat contrasting with frock, or jacket with skirt and scarf, or suit with blouse and accessories.

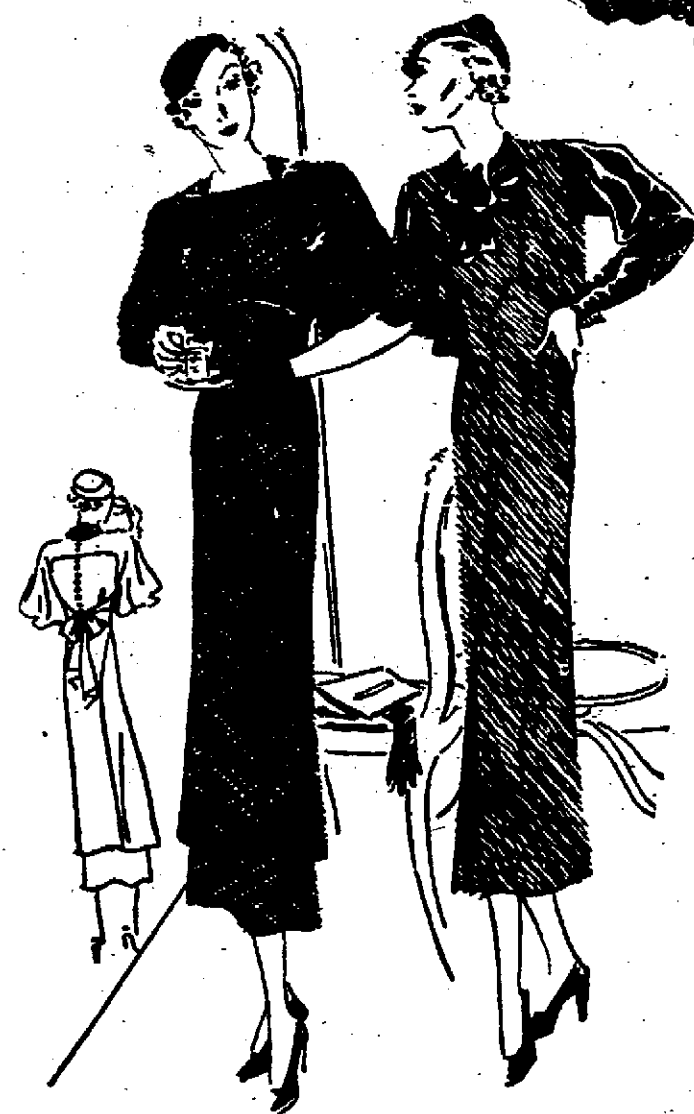

The dark blouse with light suit is a contrast fashion commented on as one having influence for spring. Vionnet, Schiaparelli and Paray all adopt it.

Wools and Rough Crepes Score Again

The dress at left, below, is in raspberry red crepe, with black pleated drape making an effective trimming. The molded line, the tunic, the tied treatment at the back and the buttons are effective.

The companion frock is fashioned of gray rough crepe, with the upper bodice section and the sleeves in dark brown rough satin.

Above, at the left, a dress developed in a red rough crepe, the sleeves puffed from a drop-shoulder to the elbow and slender to the wrist, the cartridge pleats standing out from the sleeve. The neckline is draped and held with a rhinestone and ruby ornament.

The companion frock is in the Lanvin manner, also red rough crepe. The sleeves are brown velvet—the pleats flat and giving a square cut to the sleeve.

An Apple a Day

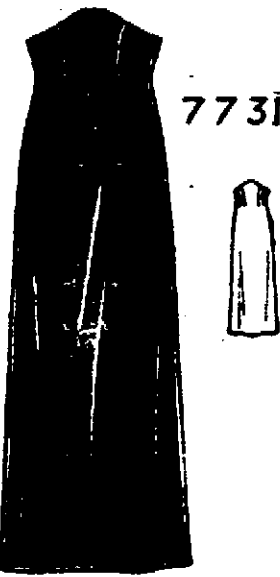

New York State's apple crop this year is estimated at 20,000,000 bushels. Thousands of bushels will rot because of a lack of sufficient consumer demand. Take advantage of the situation—use the apple recipes which will appear in each issue of this paper—cut them out for future reference.

For the first time since it was inaugurated the water department is now on a financially paying basis.

DAD WHO REARED 47 ORPHANS URGES SPANKINGS—ON PURSE

The best way to bring up a child is to hurt him in his bank account when he has reared 47-year-old Everett Reese, of Shandon, O. Reese ought to know for he has been father to 47 adopted children in his time.

Cincinnati, Ohio (P)—The way to rear children, as expounded by 76-year-old Everett Reese, is to spare the bank account and spoil the child.

He knows his method works because he has reared 47, all of them foundlings, on his farm near Shandon, Ohio, in nearby Butler county. And most of them, he proudly reports, "came out fine."

Bank accounts were the only implements of praise or punishment he used. The bank account worked both ways.

Good behavior, chores well done around the farm, good marks at school brought a few dollars more to the account of the striving youngster, whether boy or girl. An act of mischief, a streak of shirking of duties, or a bad report from the school meant a few dollars debit to the bank account.

All in all, debts and credits came out pretty evenly, Reese found. In after years, too, the bank account was a pretty good measuring stick when it came to telling whether Maggie was a better child than Johnny. In the end each child had $150 or so when the time came to leave the farm and go out into the world.

Reese started his "child farm" when he was supplying milk to the county children's home. He became interested in some of the children, and offered to give them a home. More and more came as the years went by. Then the juvenile court judge began to turn over to him some of the constable's captures, and even one or two apparently incorrigible ones who had been sent to the county jail found a haven in the Reese farm house.

He never turned them down. In 25 years he had reared 47 children. He did it all with only his sister to help him. He never married. He thought about it once, he said, but then he was "too busy paying off the mortgage, and the lady wouldn't wait."

American Legion Auxiliary Met

The regular monthly meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary of Kingston Post, No. 156, was held in the Memorial Building Friday evening, November 18.

FRENCH MAXIMS

Nothing happens for nothing.

Thrift is better than an annuity.

Trickery comes back to its master.

Yo-ho-ho for the Trade Winds!

Good Merchantmen Are Still Sailing! Read the Logs of Their Voyages and Keep Your Weather Eye on the Breeze!

YES, the business breeze is blowing again, on the land as well as on the sea, and there are straws to show which way it is blowing.

You can see them daily—unless you're the kind that has to be hit with a bale to know there's something doing.

Price straws—sales straws—straws of production, employment, credit . . . they're tickling the ears of a latent $40,000,000,000 purchasing power that some folks say is just beginning to wake up and take notice.

And when the Trade Winds blow, that's the time to hoist your sails—spell it "sales" and it's more to the point—and move ahead. It's true you can drift with the turning tide . . . you can wait for business to tow you back . . . but if you want to beat the others in, newspaper advertising's sales can catch the Trade Winds.

And here's proof, gathered by the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association:

One leading refrigerator manufacturer, asserting that "newspaper advertising is essential to merchandising success" reported September sales up 43% in response to a newspaper campaign, notwithstanding an expected seasonal decline of business in that month.

A manufacturer of toilet articles, doubling the newspaper advertising appropriation, raised net earnings to $3,283,785 in the first half of 1932, compared with $2,682,345 in the same period of 1931.

One of the largest chain stores in the country, increasing its newspaper expenditure by $13,000 in the first week of October realized an $800,000 increase in sales above the week preceding.

A major automobile concern recently reported an increase of 580% in factory shipments in the first 23 days of a newspaper advertising drive.

Using large weekly space in a list of newspapers, a paper manufacturer developed 14,000 retail outlets in 65 days, and jumped from nothing to second place among several hundred competitors.

In response to "the greatest newspaper drive ever put behind a line of food products," a large cereal manufacturer recently reported "the best day's sales in the company's history."

Using newspaper advertising exclusively, in the face of a 25% decline in the general business of his industry, a prominent oil burner maker reports sales increase of 16% for the year ended July 1, 1932.

One large restaurant chain increased its newspaper expenditure 35% in the first six months of 1932, and sales advanced 7.5% over the same period of 1931.

Shifting from other mediums to the use of newspapers exclusively, a shoe company reports September increases of from 10% to 50% among its dealers as compared with 1931.

A leading oil company, increasing its newspaper advertising lineage by 33%, raised its net earnings from $5,644,000 in the first half of 1931 to $6,917,000 in the same period of 1932.

Two large tobacco companies, accustomed to spending together over $15,000,000 annually in newspapers, reported increased business in the second quarter of this year—one anticipating the best year in its history.

These are only straws . . . but they're a few among many, and they show which way the wind is blowing.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 26 (AP).—The stock market received a crumb or two of comfort from the weekly carloadings report today, but after a rather feeble rally, the list settled back to end the day with unimportant net changes.

The closing tone was steady, although some of the leaders showed fractional declines. The turnover for the two-hour session was only about 400,000 shares.

Appearance of support for sterling exchange was encouraging, and save for silver, commodity markets acted somewhat better. The British dollar, however, was again weak, and uncertainties over the war debt situation still appeared to dominate financial sentiment.

Bar silver again weakened, with the spot quotation at New York off 1/2 cent to 25 1/2 cents, duplicating the historical low first touched in February of last year.

Brokers reported that there had been a moderate amount of real liquidation in the share market during recent sessions, although a part of the offerings had been for bear account, and the early upturn today represented largely short covering.

The October railroad earnings statements were commented upon as more hopeful, although still representing a volume of revenues inadequate to preserve the solvency of many carriers, without special help.

The first 31 roads to report had aggregated net operating income only 4.2 per cent under October of last year, but 38.6 per cent under October of two years ago.

In commodities, the wheat market was firm in the earlier hours of the session. Cotton failed to make headway, closing with slight losses of 5 to 25 cents a bale.

Sterling Exchange, after yesterday's drop of more than 4 cents, recovered about 1 1/2 cents, as support appeared. It ruled at $3.22 1/2.

The Japanese yen and the Scandinavian currencies also improved. The Canadian dollar, at 84 1/2 cents, was up 1-1/2 of a cent. The European gold currencies were about steady.

Defers Appointment Of New Chancellor

Berlin, Nov. 26 (AP).—President Von Hindenburg held a "crown council" with his close advisers today and decided to postpone the appointment of a new chancellor for the Reich for several days.

The delay was believed due to the fact that Hindenburg wished to ascertain how the Reichstag would regard the appointment of a presidential cabinet different from the Junker government of Chancellor Franz Von Papen.

While official circles did not appear to expect support for such a government from the majority of the Reichstag, they seemed to hope at least either for toleration or give a new cabinet a chance to work by adjourning several months.

The pivotal parties might be the Centre, and possibly the Nazis of Adolf Hitler, who declined to form a parliamentary government.

The president held his conference with Chancellor Von Papen, whose cabinet is serving temporarily after its resignation. Otto Meissner, the presidential secretary, and General Kurt Von Schleicher, Von Papen's minister of defense.

Who will be the next chancellor is still anybody's guess today.

Adam Grant's Daughter

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate, Inc.

OLD Adam Grant, editor and proprietor of one of the great western newspapers, never wanted it said of him that he gave preference to any member of his own family in the matter of positions on his staff.

That was why his lovely daughter, Eve, found herself established in a small flat in New York, surrounded by and observing the contents of a hundred and one magazines. Laboriously and very intelligently she was studying the world of fiction from the magazine standpoint.

"When you've mastered the analytical scene and can express it in words that convey your meaning to the readers of my paper—then and then only can you have a position on my staff," Old Adam had told Eve. "If you stay at home here among your friends you won't get anywhere. Hop off to New York for a year and pack that pretty head of yours with first-hand knowledge."

Aunt Clem, her mother's sister, had come along with her to see that she ate three square meals a day.

It was Aunt Clem who, bored at times into reading the personals in the papers, came across the advertisement that gave her an idea.

It read, "Old magazines wanted by writer." And there was a name attached which made Aunt Clem smile secretly.

Aunt Clem sighed in relief. The small flat was becoming like a storage room for magazines.

She consequently answered the advertisement and left a huge bundle of magazines to be called for.

Not by the proverbial candle, but beside a well-lighted table, young Avery Weldon carried on his yet embryonic authorship. But he was working desperately hard to succeed and was reading fiction in the magazines voraciously in order to get a drift with the market.

That was how the huge pile of old magazines happened to be on the floor beside him. He couldn't quite afford to buy all the new ones and his advertisement had brought him many.

"By jove! This is funny!" Beside the title of the stories were fine marginal notes of criticism, couched in terse but most expressive language.

"Medium. Not bad. Piffle. No point. Wishy-Washy. Very good. Why was it given space? Doesn't know men. Needs to study women."

Avery swiftly picked up the publications and printed his own work and with a somewhat shrinking heart opened the page. Yes, there beside his own story which he had in a moment of stupidity called "A Rose of the Desert" he saw the words, "Author in the making but badly lacking the human touch."

Avery puffed a bit furiously at his pipe. The nail was hit straight on the head. Avery knew that.

And because a real author must not be rictically conventional or too awfully bound by laws of society, Avery got up, put on his hat and stroled toward the apartment building from whence his magazines had arrived.

The elevator took him up to the fifth floor and there left him. And in another few moments he was standing at an open door. Aunt Clem herself was out, but Eve answered his ring.

Avery didn't know what to say now that he was there and with Eve's calm eyes gazing at him he felt that he made rather a sorry story of the incident of buying the old magazines.

But Eve was very nice about it and invited him in.

"I didn't even know my aunt had cleared them out," she said, as he followed her into a magazine-strewn room.

"I wanted so desperately to chat with the critic who had jotted

SHOKAN.

Shokan, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Earl Elmendorf has returned from a visit with relatives in Pittsfield, Mass. Mrs. Elmendorf also made a side trip to Boston while away from Shokan.

Robert Peck and family of New York city spent Thanksgiving at the Peck homestead on the upper mountain road.

Sylvester Wells is delivering oak stave wood to customers in the twin villages. Mr. Wells, who started in the firewood business last winter, is still getting his supply of pole and cordwood from his old home farm in the town of Rochester, a short distance from Samsonville.

Mrs. Mercy Wheeler and two young nephews of Mt. Vernon motored here Thursday morning and paid a brief call at Mr. and Mrs. Homer Markle's. In the west end of the village, Mrs. Wheeler, coming by way of the Bronx River parkway extension and the Bear Mountain bridge, made the run to Shokan in about two and one-half hours, and she expected to get back home in time for the family Thanksgiving dinner at 3 o'clock.

The reservoir, with both its basins full to the flow line, presents an unusual beautiful sight at this time. The aerator also appears to be sending its hundreds of jets higher in air than during periods of lower water.

What with the trees on the marginal strips around the boulevard practically bare, except in the case of the evergreens, and a comparatively few oaks, much more may be seen of the Ashokan than during the summer months. Thursday was one of the few holidays in the year when the aerator park and environs was practically deserted by motorists, every one apparently being at home or spending the day with friends and relatives. A trip down that way in mid-afternoon revealed not a single car parked near the main dam, in the park or on the dykes.

A local real estate transfer of November 26, 1932, was that of a farm property along the west branch of the Butternutkill from William C. Markle to his son, Solomon Markle, who in turn was succeeded in the occupancy of the place by his son, Clarence. The farm, now known as the Sentimlosky place, later became the home of the late Mrs. Kate Hill, and before being purchased by the Sentimloskys it was a part of the Herbert A. Dibbell holdings.

One of the largest Thanksgiving Day reunions in the village was that at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry

C. Elmendorf. Guests who partook of the Elmendorf hospitality on this occasion included the following Shokan people: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Elmendorf, Mr. and Mrs. Burr Elmendorf and three daughters, Clarence Moe and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Altkens.

Several members of the Chase bungalow colony spent the holiday at their summer homes on Winchell mountain.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sahlbeck motored to Wallkill Thursday afternoon and called on relatives in that place.

The Shokan friends of Aarssen Van Wageningen, son of Dr. H. P. Van Wageningen, of Kingston, were glad to learn through The Freeman that Aarssen is making good progress toward recovery, following an operation last Thursday at St. Luke's Hospital. The Van Wageningen summer home here is located about a mile and a half west of the village center.

Clarence Moe is riding around in one of the classy new model Ford coupes. Mr. Moe's car with its paint job of navy blue, is attracting favorable comments from residents of Shokan and Ashokan.

Mrs. Baptiste Nadal of the Heights section has returned home from a Kingston hospital where she had been confined for several weeks following a serious operation.

Former Mayor John E. Kraft of Kingston was numbered among the callers in the village on Thursday.

Raymond Cruthers and family of Ridgefield Park, N. J., are sojourning at their place on Church Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Cruthers have many friends here who are always glad to welcome them on their visits to Shokan.

The outstanding event in Olive on Thursday, November 27, 1932, was the nuptials of Dubois Schutt and Jeanette Enlist, both of whom resided near Shokan and were prominent in the social affairs of the younger set here. The Rev. W. R. Betts of the Reformed Church, who was a grandfather of Joseph Dewitt of this place, was the officiating clergyman at the wedding ceremony.

On the day after the wedding the bridal party "rode out," later going to the home of Stephen Schutt for a social time. Included among the young folks attending this old time wedding party were the following: Dr. C. Davis, Mary Ann Davis, Hilram Boice, Daniel Enlist, Isaac Hill and Stephen Brodhead. Of these young people, the Davises later became the parents of Mrs. Golden Van Benschoten of Shokan. Mrs. Enlist is a daughter of Isaac Hill, and Harley Bishop of Kingston is a grandson of Daniel Enlist.

Mrs. Mathilde Kieckler and daughter, Meta, motored here from their home in Montclair and spent Thanksgiving Day at the Kieckler summer place.

Dr. and Mrs. Dumond of Tongore were callers in the village on Thursday. Although the doctor makes daily trips to this section, the visit of Mrs. Dumond came as a pleasant surprise to several of her Shokan friends who had not seen the doctor's wife since she was taken ill several years ago.

Everyone was sorry to learn of the loss of Supervisor Chester A. Lyons' fine flock of chickens in the fire which destroyed his barn last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyons had spent considerable time and money in raising their large flock of pullets, which at the time of the fire were laying better than the general run of young stock in the lower village. They had also invested in a complete assortment of fixtures for the poultry and there was about a ton of feed stored in the building, all of which were a complete loss. The loss on the building itself was partially covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Barley of the Olive Bridge section were numbered among the callers in Shokan on Thursday morning.

November has provided the farmers with a deal of weather suitable for their fall plowing. Frank Roosa and assistants at the Jules Brouchaud farm near Brodhead appear to have turned over as much soil as the next one in Olive this fall. The plowing jobs at the Brouchaud place, as viewed from the Samsonville road, present a pleasing sight to the passerby who is interested in progressive agriculture.

Lyle Wager, young man, is meeting with gratifying success in his recently established garage business in Mt. Tremper. Lyle's friends are glad to learn that he is making good in the neighboring Shandaken village.

ROCHESTER CENTER.

Rochester Center, Nov. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gray and family called on Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gray this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerome Thomas of Clintondale, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Quick of New Paltz, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Baker of Mettacaubons, and Mrs. Amelia Markle of this place were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Chrissy on Sunday.

Carl Churchill, who has been visiting Elliott Allen, has returned to his home in Oosting.

Benjamin Barley and family were entertained for dinner Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gray. Mr. Barley comes from Pine Hill.

W. Ward Hutchins, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Van Gasbeck and family enjoyed a noon dinner Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Van Gasbeck.

Floyd Chrissy and family of Mettacaubons, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chrissy and son from Albany spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Luther Chrissy.

Walter Van Gasbeck, Edward

Chrissy and Fred Osterhoudt are cutting a winter supply of wood for Alton Chrissy.

LeRoy Van Gasbeck has his sawmill running this week.

Mrs. Hannah Gray is around the house again after her recent illness.

Rochester Center school closed Wednesday night for Thanksgiving recess. The children made Pilgrim booklets this week. Their "Read a Book" posters were a grand success for first attempts at using India ink and lettering pens.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Although our best athletic and medical minds are not entirely agreed on this, it now seems well established that cross-country running, up to and including the six-mile championship distance, is not harmful to the average, well-conditioned college boy.

It seems to me there is far less hazard over the hills and dales than there is on the gridiron, in addition to a great deal less attention and ballyhoo. Boys who go out for cross-country must like to run for what they get out of it.

Meanwhile our good friend, Harry Hillman of Dartmouth, has gone to a great amount of effort to show that long distance running is not injurious to the physically fit, aided by the reports and comments of nine coaches, five physicians, several athletic leaders and one marathon champion.

The emphasis must be put, however, on those words "physically fit." Lawson Robertson, the University of Pennsylvania and Olympic coach, objects to six miles of cross-country running as "too far for immature youths" and adds the conviction "that a six mile run of any description is a man's game and not a boy's."

Medical men like Dr. Paul Lowry of Syracuse, who regard cross-country as one of the most strenuous of intercollegiate sports, point out the necessity of proper conditioning and "more careful medical supervision." Dr. John Pollard Bowler of Dartmouth, while putting his sanction on properly supervised collegiate activity, thinks "the schoolboy cross-country running is utterly absurd."

Stagg Against It

Although not speaking as a cross-country coach, Amos Alonzo Stagg in his report to Hillman cites his recollection of "a boy who participated in the intercollegiate cross-country run in Chicago (who) had dilatation of the heart. I do not know the circumstances but I have never forgotten how he looked as he came in."

This, however, appears to have been exceptional. It is the testimony and experience of men like Keene Fitzpatrick of Princeton, Steve Farrell of Michigan, Jack Moakley of Cornell, Eddie Farrell of Harvard and Tom Keane of Syracuse, covering a period of 17 to 42 years of coaching, that they have known of no injurious results, such as heart strain, from long distance or cross-country running.

Steve Farrell, however, would bar any boy under 18 years of age from running any distance over two miles.

Doesn't Hurt DeMar

We have, also, this noteworthy report from Clarence H. DeMar: "Have competed in some 45 full marathons in the last twenty-two years and countless smaller ones. Have won 17 or more of these. I feel better now than when I began. Am 44 years of age. The youngsters have to step to beat me. I have lost just 14 days from work because of sickness in 25 years of earning my living."

"The doctors told Sidney Hatch when he was running marathon races that every race took ten years off his life. Sidney was alarmed as he had already run 50 marathons before being warned, thus having wasted 500 years of his life."

Highlanders Take Spinnys Over, 46-31

At Smith's Hall, Highland, Friday night, the Spinnys Five of Port Ewen was unable to stop the strong offensive attack of the Highland American Legion team and went down to defeat by the score of 31-46. Leading the Highlanders' drive for points was McAuley, the center, who gleamed 15. Hank Krum, his opponent, tossed in five fields for Spinnys, making 19 markers.

Melinkovich Owes His Wild Riding Ways to Utah Bronks

Notre Dame's great fullback learned much of the technique of openfield running from a long and intimate association with unnamed "bronks" in his native Utah. Broncho bustin' is even tougher than football, he vows, but not so much fun.

War on Plagues
Malaria no longer ravages Europe, because improved sanitation, drainage, and refuse disposal have made it difficult for mosquitoes of the malarial type to breed effectively. Similar measures would quickly clean up the tropical countries, but little is done. Quinine is a proved safeguard for people living in malarial areas. Yet to have any effect in India alone, that country would require an annual production of nearly 1,000,000 pounds weight of quinine. At present India produces one-eighth of that amount.

Writes the author of "The Simple Life": "When I am forced to contemplate the filthiness of some men's lives a great sadness takes possession of me, with such deep distress does the emptiness of all this vanity fill me; but I never tire of watching a workman at his task, on account of a certain lofty dignity, a certain majesty, that surrounds him in my eyes." Will it be for any country when work comes to be generally despised and the majesty of the very wealthy is admitted as the ideal condition—no change.

MAX EXTEND ELECTRIC
LINE IN RESERVOIR SECTION

West Shokan, Nov. 25.—Report is current that an endeavor is being made to extend the electric line from the north boulevard side at Boleville across the Esopus to supply Mrs. Morrison's farm, Chester, Butler, the Oakes estate, Oak Mountain Farm and the Will Morrison summer residence, the latter lying at the foot of Traver Hollow Hill. Should such an extension be worked out it would be an added incentive to extend service to the permanent residences and camps in Traver Hollow, terminating at the estate of Ross W. Lynn, near the head of the Hollow. The distance from the east side to the foot of the Traver Hollow hill would approximate one mile. Another mile and a half would reach Mr. Lynn's property, with a quarter mile side line down to the residence of Martin J. Every. The present terminus of the West Shokan extension now supplies service to the Austock residence at North Main Street Heights. The Lucht and Schmoekel cottages adjacent are also due for a hookup. The intervening distance from this point north to the Traver Hollow road is in the neighborhood of a mile and a quarter, but no buildings form an inducement to the project between these points. But anyway, sooner or later, as cottages spring up electricity will encircle the reservoir as now does the telephone line, and for the advancement of the common good.

Today
Kingston: "You Said A Mouthful." Joe E. Brown again scores in this comedy riot that was created especially for him, and gives him every opportunity of capitalizing on his peculiar screen talent. Again he's the boy who makes good, and the laughs come thick and fast as Mr. Brown breezes through the scenes. Ginger Rogers is the love interest, and Farina, of "Our Gang" fame, does a good job in his first feature picture. For plenty of laughs, don't miss this one.

Orpheum: "Crooner" and "Okay America". An excellent and diversified double feature offering, the first talkie being a timely story of a radio crooner whose popularity turns his head. The principals are Ann Dvorak and David Manners. "Okay America" is a newspaper columnist story, and Lew Ayres as the gossip columnist, is given his finest part in many months. Action, thrills, humor and suspense are all blended into this fast moving story. A program worth seeing.

Broadway: "Air Mail." Here's a thriller of the U. S. Air Mail service that is rare entertainment for those who like excitement and action in their talkies. The plot moves along briskly throughout, there are some thrilling airplane scenes, and a fine cast that includes Ralph Bellamy, Pat O'Brien, Lillian Bond, Gloria Stuart, Leslie Fenton, Russell Hopton, and David Landau. The dangers that face the air mail pilot in his journey through the sky are thrillingly alive and real. Storms, fogs, night, all of these dangers must be battled with, for the mails must be delivered. That is the theme of the story. Grand entertainment.

Ritz: "The Struggle" and "The Lone Trail". D. W. Griffith, once master of the movie directors, is again at the megaphone in this story that shows what drink will do to a man. Hal Skelly is the featured player. "The Lone Trail" is a western action picture.

Tomorrow
Kingston: "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang". Stark, brutal drama, this life story of a southern chain gang fugitive who escapes twice from the tortures of his captivity, the first time to become a respected citizen, only to be dragged back to the chain gang on discovery. He breaks again, and becomes a hunted creature, always moving, never safe, the danger is not close by. This picture is depressing, but brilliant in acting and suspense. Melvyn LeRoy, the director, has done a fine job with a story that demanded careful handling, and Paul Muni, as the soldier who becomes an accomplice in a crime that sentences him to the Chain Gang, offers a marvelous characterization. Recommended as powerful, absorbing screen drama.

Orpheum: "Surrender" and "Wild West Whoopee". Warner Baxter and Lella Hyams are the featured players in the first talkie, a war story laid in a romantic German castle. Ralph Bellamy is also in the cast. Tom Perrin rides, shoots, fights, and does practically everything to bring the theatre audience "Wild West Whoopee". Another chapter of "Air Mail Mystery" is also being shown at this performance.

Broadway: "The Fourth Horseman". Tom Mix and Tony in another western melodrama, given with the fitness and action that only Tom Mix can put in a western picture. There is action, romance, excitement, in fact all the essentials necessary to a successful cowboy picture, are woven into this play.

Col. Minnigerode
To Address Rotary

A distinguished speaker and soldier in the person of Colonel Fitzhugh Minnigerode, former chief of the European service of the Sunday edition of the New York Times, and now a member of that paper's staff, will be the guest speaker at the Rotary Club meeting on Wednesday in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Colonel Minnigerode entered the Army from Virginia, and has served every grade from private to colonel. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal by order of President Wilson for the rescue of drowning soldiers in the Philippines. During the World War he commanded the 114th Infantry Regiment, which was the first American unit to enter the lines before Verdun. For his gallantry in the World War, Colonel Minnigerode has been awarded the American Distinguished Service Cross, French Legion of Honor, and two Croix de Guerre. Following the war, Colonel Minnigerode retired from the Army, and devoted his time to writing.

Colonel Minnigerode's talk before the Rotary Club, entitled "The Annihilation of Time and Space," is a fascinating address by a layman for laymen, and bears no resemblance to a strict scientific discourse.

The progress of man's desire to annihilate time and space from the dawn of reason down to the present time is traced, along with future prognostications based largely upon the predictions of Senatore Marconi.

The development of aviation, Marconi and the wireless, great "power" broadcasting stations, how natural forces are utilized, the inherent power of tides, winds, the earth's internal heat, the sun, the romantic growth of power and speed, these are among the topics that Colonel Minnigerode will discuss in his address before the local service club.

Fallacy
It is usually the small-minded and narrow-minded man who can deny faults and failings with an eagle eye, but upon whom all the finer and grander qualities of humanity are lost. To him who ever walks with head bent and eyes on the ground the whole universe appears to be made of dirt; but he who goes with head erect and eyes uplifted breathes the pure air and greets the rising sun, and forgets the dust that may be under his feet.

INFLAMED NERVESMADE HEALTHFUL

Nerve inflammation, or neuritis, is inflammation of a nerve. It is usually progressive in character, the process of Nature being to fill the blood vessels of the inflamed area with serum. As the heat of the inflammation continues, this serum dries up and there is degeneration of nerve and cell tissue. This is a very dangerous stage to permit to develop.

The very nature of neuritis indicates its nerve source. Neuritis is caused by spinal nerve congestion at the joints of the spine. It is obvious, therefore, that Chiropractic is the logical method to employ for neuritis, as it overcomes the very cause of this disease.

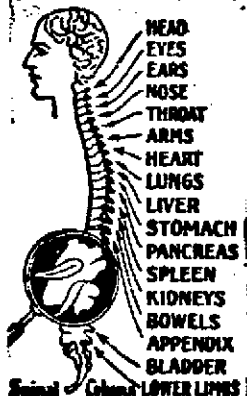

There is repeated evidence that sufferers from other diseases have also found in Chiropractic the thing that freed them of the suffering. Be on the safe side by today arranging for a Chiropractic examination!
